Syrian refugees still need Winnipeggers' help: Advocate

Red River College.
Graduate gives seminar on the situation refugees are facing in Lebanon

BERNICE

bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

As the number of Syrian refugees in Lebanon hit one million on Thursday, a Winnipeg humanitarian agency worker shared stories of her visit to the area with students at Red River College.

Amanda Thorsteinsson, communications officer with the Canadian Foodgrains Bank, told Metro Winnipeg after her Thursday morning seminar with students that the situation the Syrians are facing is increasingly dire and not enough attention is being paid to it in Canada.

"The thing about the Syrian refugee crisis is that a lot of the people, they're very middle-class, ordinary people that had ordinary jobs back home in Syria and they never expected this to happen to them," said Thorsteinsson, an RRC graduate who was in Lebanon for 10 days late last year.

"They're also not used to living in such poverty. I met one family who was living in a converted chicken barn."

Thorsteinsson said that while Lebanon has been very welcoming to Syrian refugees, they haven't allowed camps to be set up over concerns that they'll become permanent, which is what happened with Palestinian refugees that arrived back in 1948.

Thorsteinsson said Winnipeggers can help by getting educated on the crisis and donating to organizations that are doing humanitarian work for Syrian refugees, like hers.

"The thing that I came away with more than anything is how hopeful the people are and their strength and resilience, and hope for their children and their country in dealing with this crisis," she said.

The three-year-old conflict in Syria, a country with a pre-war population of 23 million, has killed more than 150,000 people, according to the Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights.

Learn about garbage, recycling in 'A Winnipeg Minute'

A still from a series of videos recently launched by the City of Winnipeg.

COURTESY OF CITY OF WINNIPEG

The City of Winnipeg began asking for a minute of citizens' time on Thursday, launching the first in a series of online vignettes explaining city services.

There will be one "A Winnipeg Minute" video produced in partnership with CTV Bell Media each month, with the first touching on the city's garbage and recycling program.

City officials stated in a press release that "A Winnipeg Minute" is a one-year pilot program aimed at informing residents "in a more efficient, cost-effective way to a broader audience." They expect to reach 95 per cent of citizens in the first year.

The videos will be posted to the city's website and different social media, as well as shown on CTV Winnipeg television station and aired in 60-second and 30-second radio spots.

The city also aims to use this platform to provide information on events like the current frozen pipes situation or spring flooding.

CTV Bell Media was awarded the contract for the campaign in January after a request for proposals went out last November. The contract is valued at $470,500 and the funds are coming from the "existing budgets of city departments."

Hockey parents suspended for fight

A husband and wife who have been banned from minor hockey rinks for the next three years say they will appeal the decision by Hockey Winnipeg.

Drew Belandiuk says he and his wife, Christine, were only trying to protect their son, who they say has a medical condition, adding they feared he was being hurt by members of the opposing team.

A police incident report says the couple were asked to leave the locker room in Fargo, N.D., after the woman reportedly barged in and confronted the coach of the team of eight-year-olds.

An argument followed and that's when Belandiuk says he intervened, though he denies witness accounts of punches being thrown.

"I pushed the coach with my hand because he used physical force on my wife," he says. "I'm not denying I (did) anything wrong, but media outlets and Hockey Winnipeg make it look like the (opposing) coaches are angels."

Hockey Winnipeg says it interviewed several witnesses following the Feb. 8 altercation.

President Don Macintosh listed foul language, the ensuing fight, and the fact the mom and dad went into the opposing team's "space" as some of the reasons why it has decided the pair should be banned from entering a rink where their son is playing for the next three years.

Ballet to tell residential schools story through dance

75th season opening. Performance will help narrative reach wider audience: TRC chair

Looking ahead

Here's what's on tap for the RWB's 2014/2015 season:

- A Story of Truth and Reconciliation, Nutcracker, Cinderella, Swan Lake, The Faerie Queen (based on A Midsummer Night's Dream), La Bayadère: Kingdom of the Shades + Ballet Vignettes, Q Dance

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet will open its 75th season with a piece inspired by the stories recounted by aboriginal residential school survivors during the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) over the last five years.

Commissioned by artistic director André Lewis and supported by the TRC, A Story of Truth and Reconciliation follows a young aboriginal woman as she learns about her ancestors, telling her story through dance.

"It was natural for us to do this," said Lewis, explaining the medium of ballet allows the often tragic stories to be told in a new way. "It does away with some of the language and goes to the core of the emotions."

Justice Murray Sinclair,

chair of the TRC, was on hand Thursday as the RWB announced their 2014-2015 season, telling those gathered the unique piece will help the stories of survivors reach a wider audience.

"The true story of the aboriginal experience in this country is not well known to Canadians," he said.

"We want to ensure as part of our work at the commission ... that we make it known, and that we inspire people who are in positions of influence in society to help to make it known as well."

A Story of Truth and Reconciliation runs Oct. 1-5.

Pride Winnipeg plots rural expansion

Proudly Manitoban.
Thompson to hold its first festival this summer

Ready or not, Pride is coming to rural Manitoba.

With the success of the Winnipeg Pride Festival, organizers at are now setting their sights on helping smaller Manitoba communities set up their own festivals as well.

"At this time only Manitoba's two biggest cities, Winnipeg and Brandon, have Prides," said Pride Winnipeg president Jonathan Niemczak.

"With Bill 18 last year, and all of the issues in Steinbach and Morris, we realized we need to do something about this."

Both municipalities were against Bill 18, an anti-bullying bill that forces schools to allow the creation of gay-straight alliances.

Organizers have been working behind the scenes with a group in Thompson who, with funding from Pride Winnipeg, will hold their first Pride Festival in June.

"Essentially they're a subsidiary to Pride Winnipeg," explained Niemczak.

"We're basically going to do all the back office things for them, and they're going to just worry about the programming."

"Which is great because that's exactly what they should be focusing on."

Niemczak said the festival in Thompson is a pilot project, and if all works out well, Pride Winnipeg hopes to bring festivals to other communities in the future — maybe even Steinbach or Morris.

"We know we'd be going into the lion's den with that one," laughed Niemczak about the possibility.

Seven-year-old's death

Mounties close books on fatal dog mauling

RCMP say they will not lay charges in the death of a seven-year-old Manitoba girl who was mauled last month by two Alaskan malamute dogs.

Mounties say the decision was made after they completed their investigation into the March 16 attack at a property near Oakbank, east of Winnipeg.

Gracie Herntier-Clark was with her family visiting friends at the time of the attack.

The girl was taken to a Winnipeg hospital, where she was pronounced dead.

Both dogs were seized and later euthanized.

Police had said the girl was familiar with the animals. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Halifax. Pizza theft has happy, cheesy ending

This is a feel-good story that's truly, deliciously, cheesy.

A Dartmouth, N.S., woman recovering at a Halifax hospital from surgery to treat Crohn's disease is awash in gratitude this week after some deep-dish acts of kindness.

"It restores your faith a little bit in humanity," said Jessica Wilson, 24.

Wilson has been on a mostly liquid diet over the last month, and had a procedure this week requiring a 24-hour fast.

She awoke Tuesday eagerly looking forward to solid food in the form of a Hawaiian pizza she had stowed — marked with her name — in her floor's communal fridge the night before.

But the pizza was gone, the empty box crumpled in the garbage can.

"When you're sick and you've been in hospital for a month, the smallest thing seems so big," said Wilson. "So for me, it was earth-shattering."

Nearly choking on disappointment, Wilson took to Facebook to rant.

Sympathetic friends took up her cause and by the end of Tuesday, two large pizzas had been delivered, anonymously, to her floor and the owner of local restaurant Morris East personally delivered a large Hawaiian party pizza.

Digital strategy. Gov't set to unveil new framework

Ottawa is set to unveil its long-awaited national digital strategy.

Industry Minister James Moore, in a video clip posted on YouTube and the pm.gc.ca website, said the policy framework "is going to prepare this country for the next generation of opportunities in the digital world."

Called Digital Canada 150, he said the framework will be unveiled at an event in Waterloo, Ont. Friday.

Observers say the framework could add details on how the Conservative government can meet its target of "near-universal" broadband access within five years. The February budget included $350 million for extending broadband to rural and remote areas.

Moore said the digital strategy will focus on economic issues and measures to expand Canadian cultural content. "I'm talking about a digital strategy which includes the economic aspects but it will be broad based, it will be substantive."

The promise of a digital strategy has been long-standing, with two of Moore's successors promising action but a policy has yet to be delivered. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

'She resonates with other people'

One year later. Leah Parsons says she takes comfort in the fact that Rehtaeh's story has helped others

A tattoo on Leah Parsons' shoulder is partially covered by her shirt until she lifts the sleeve, revealing a portrait of her daughter Rehtaeh in black ink alongside small crows.

Parsons said she got the tattoo last May to honour her daughter, who had gotten one of a feather with crows flying out of it "like a rebirth" on her 16th birthday.

"It was kind of a way for her to take back her body," Parsons said.

It's been a year since Rehtaeh died on April 7 after attempting to take her own life, which her mother says was due to months of bullying after a photo of her alleged rape was spread around school.

A walk in her memory is planned for Saturday afternoon, which Parsons said has the double importance of bringing awareness to rape culture.

"It's a worldwide thing," Parsons said. "She resonates with other people because they know how easily it could Parsons especially hopes teenagers will come and listen to the messages of respect, and not victimizing others.

"Don't stand around and do nothing. You've got to speak up. If you're saying something negative about a female ... you've got to make it socially unacceptable, that it's not cool."

Rehtaeh's story led to multiples reviews and new legislation around sharing intimate photos. Parsons said the important thing is she brought up issues "that needed to be talked about."

Parsons says she finds strength in the messages pouring in from people around the world about how Rehtaeh changed their lives.

One woman said a tattoo of Rehtaeh on her wrist is a reminder to stop harming herself. Many have said she gave them strength to talk about their own rape.

"It's what keeps me going," Parsons said. "It's very therapeutic to receive those types of messages, and it just tells me she mattered and she matters to people."

Ukraine. Ousted president accused of using snipers, thugs to squash opposition

Ukraine's interim authorities accused the country's ousted president of ordering snipers to open fire on protesters and getting help from Russian security agents to battle his own people — but their report Thursday provided no evidence directly linking him to the bloodbath in Kyiv.

Acting Interior Minister Arsen Avakov also charged that his predecessor employed gangs of killers, kidnappers and thugs to terrorize and undermine the opposition during Ukraine's tumultuous winter of discontent.

The preliminary findings revealed by Kyiv's new leadership examined the months of anti-government protests that culminated in the deaths in February

Fort Hood. Gunman may have argued with fellow soldiers before rampage

The soldier who killed three people at Fort Hood may have argued with another service member shortly before the attack at the Texas military base, and investigators believe his unstable mental health contributed to the rampage, authorities said Thursday.

The base's senior officer, Lt. Gen. Mark Milley, said there is a "strong possibility" that Spc. Ivan Lopez had a "verbal altercation" with another soldier or soldiers immediately before Wednesday's shooting. However, there's no indication that he targeted specific soldiers, Milley said.

Lopez never saw combat during a deployment to Iraq and had shown no apparent risk of violence before the shooting, officials said.

The 34-year-old truck driver seemed to have a clean record that showed no ties to extremist groups. But Army Secretary John McHugh promised that investigators would keep all avenues open in their inquiry of the soldier whose rampage ended only after he fired a final bullet into his own head.

A hospital official expressed optimism Thursday that all of the 16 people who were wounded in the shooting would survive.

Crack video led to fears of retribution by Ford

Project Brazen 2. Wiretap shows locals worried they'd 'feel the heat' from T.O. mayor

A woman living in a suspected crack house where she suggested the Rob Ford crack video was filmed complained the Toronto mayor's "people" were stopping by every day following media reports about the video, police allege.

Elena Basso is heard on a wiretapped conversation with an alleged gang member saying Ford has "got power" and "it doesn't matter who's right or wrong ... we're going to feel the heat everywhere," police allege.

Police summaries of wiretaps made as part of Project Traveller are among information ordered released to the public Thursday by an Ontario Superior Court judge.

Ford declared Thursday that he had been "cleared" after the provincial police force, which was tapped last month to oversee a Toronto police probe of the mayor's activities, said it was no longer involved.

Police say one of the wiretapped conversations was between alleged gang member Liban Siyad and Basso, whose home police allege is a "hang-out for crack cocaine users."

According to the documents, Siyad tells Basso he had nothing to do with the video and both talk about "G" being responsible for it. Police believe "G" is Mohamed Siad, who was also ultimately arrested in Project Traveller.

If Siyad had the video, he would bring it to Basso "directly to give to Rob," police allege he said in a May 20 conversation.

"The f—ing goof did it at my house," police allege Basso said. "I got Rob's f—ing people and cops coming here every f—ing day."

The "whole area" is going to "go down" because of "G," and "G" screwed up her business, Siyad's business and everybody's business, police allege Basso said.

Siyad wanted Basso to tell Ford he didn't have the video and Basso assured him she knows that, police allege.

"To be fair, Rob Ford — I told you guys — is a big f—ing idiot," police allege Basso said.

Students take aim at PQ budget

Quebec demo.

Students oppose cost-saving measures never implemented because of election call

A protest by thousands of Quebec students was declared illegal shortly after it began Thursday because authorities had not received details of the route beforehand.

The demonstration was called to oppose what organizers described as austerity measures contained in last February's provincial budget.

At least two people were arrested. Measures in the budget were not implemented because the PQ called a provincial election. Protesters blame the PQ for increasing the cost of public services, education and electricity.

Deep hidden ocean discovered on Saturn moon

Enceladus. The planet's little moon is probably not the only one with a subsurface sea; Saturn's Titan may have a large ocean

Scientists have uncovered a vast ocean beneath the icy surface of Saturn's little moon Enceladus.

Italian and American researchers made the discovery using Cassini, a NASA-European spacecraft still exploring Saturn and its rings 17 years after its launch from Cape Canaveral.

Their findings were announced Thursday.

This shows the possible interior of Enceladus. NASA, JPL, CALTECH/AP

This new ocean of liquid water — as big as or even bigger than North America's Lake Superior — is centred at the south pole of Enceladus and could encompass much if not most of the moon. Enceladus is about 499 kilometres across.

The data does not show if the ocean extends to the north pole, said the lead researcher, Luciano Iess of Sapienza University of Rome. At the very least, it's a regional sea some 40 kilometres deep under miles-thick ice.

On Earth, it would stretch at least from our South Pole up to New Zealand.

Cassini's rudimentary instruments cannot determine whether the moon's ocean harbours any form of life. Another mission using more sophisticated instruments is needed for that.

ZunZuneo. The popular social network was a USAID project in Cuba

The U.S. government masterminded the creation of a "Cuban Twitter" — a communications network designed to undermine the communist government in Cuba, built with secret shell companies and financed through foreign banks, The Associated Press has learned.

Project "ZunZuneo" lasted more than two years and drew 40,000-plus subscribers. First, the network would build a Cuban audience, mostly young people; then, the plan was to push them to dissent. It's unclear whether the scheme was legal under U.S. law. Rajiv Shah, administrator for the

The project began in 2009 after Washington-based Cre-

Lincoln. Lost lobster dies far from home

The Lincoln County Humane Society in St. Catharines sent out a tweet Thursday saying a lobster found abandoned in a box in a restaurant parking lot has died.

The crustacean — dubbed Mickey the Lobster — was discovered Wednesday in a parking lot. The humane society's executive director Kevin Strooband had said the investigation was ongoing, but suspected that the lobster was left there as a prank on April Fools' Day.

The animal shelter had been making plans to send the lobster back to the Maritimes where it probably came from. But now those hopes are dashed, although the humane society said on Twitter that it had received three offers to get Mickey home.

Strooband said an investigation into how the lobster ended up in a box in the parking lot was ongoing.

Chile quakes cause huge evacuations, leave ruined homes

Repeated aftershocks.
Power out in many areas, schools closed

Coastal residents of Chile's far north spent a second sleepless night outside their homes as major aftershocks continued Thursday following a magnitude-8.2 earthquake that damaged several thousand homes and caused six deaths.

No new major damage or casualties were reported, and a heavy police and military presence kept order.

The infrastructure in the area is nearly entirely intact, but with aftershocks continuing, life has been anything but normal. Power remains out in many areas, and hospitals were handling only emergencies. Schools were closed, and large supermarkets and gas stations co-ordinated their reopenings Thursday with police and military to avoid problems with long lines of customers.

After a magnitude-7.6 aftershock struck just before midnight Wednesday, Chile's Emergency Office and navy issued a tsunami alert, and for two hours ordered everyone living in low-lying areas along the country's entire 4,000 kilometre Pacific coastline to evacuate.

Among those moved inland was President Michelle Bachelet, who was in the city of Arica assessing damage in the north from Tuesday night's powerful quake.

"I was evacuated like all citizens. One can see that the people are prepared," she tweeted early Thursday.

Chile's evacuation order was lifted at around 2 a.m. Thursday. Some 900,000 people also were affected the night before when the entire coast was evacuated for several hours after Tuesday's bigger quake, although the tsunami proved small.

Afghan girl loses arm but not her love of art

California dream.

Seven-year-old gets a prosthetic arm fitted for free — and a helping hand from L.A. artist

She had always loved to paint and draw, something it appeared the little girl from Afghanistan might never do again after she mistakenly picked up a grenade outside her war-torn home last year and it blew off her right arm.

But with the help of doctors, prosthetists and a prominent Los Angeles artist, seven-year-old Shah Bibi Tarakhail dispelled any notion that something as ugly as war can stifle a small child's determination to add beauty to the world.

At the Galerie Michael on Rodeo Drive in the heart of Beverly Hills on Wednesday, Shah Bibi grabbed a tube of colour with her new prosthetic hand and proceeded to put a series of brush strokes across a piece of art board artist Davyd Whaley had provided. The finished result, the artist said afterward, "was pretty mind-blowing."

The artist's own work is the subject of a large exhibition at Galerie Michael, where Shah Bibi was invited to join him after gallery owners learned of her love of art.

Less than a year ago, she was at home in Afghanistan when she went outside one morning to play with her brother. There had been a violent battle pitting Taliban fighters against U.S. military forces the night before, but that was nothing residents weren't used to.

"There was what looked like a rock that she picked up and threw on the ground and it exploded," said Ilaha Omar, a Children of War Foundation member who brought her to the United States, where Shriners Hospital treated her for free. The explosion had destroyed her right eye, taken off most of her right arm, put a few scars on her face and killed her brother.

She'll return to her family in Afghanistan next week.

ARE YOU A TARGET?

And if so, what to do.

Hackers and privacy thieves may sometimes come to us in ways we don't expect; here are a few examples that might surprise you

Metro in Ottawa

After taking the normal precautions to protect our privacy and digital belongings — measures such as making strong passwords, using firewalls and anti-virus software, keeping computers and other equipment updated and using a VPN at public Wi-Fi sites — people have to weigh how much further they have to go to stay safe.

Inside job

"When it comes to security in businesses, the person who is going to have the easiest time of things is the person inside your company."

Leigh Honeywell, computer security researcher, who says companies need to be really careful about who they hire easy a question to answer as most people think it is.

Are you rich? No? Is your boss?

While an individual of modest means might be less likely to be a target for hackers, their employers might be, says Wright.

"Sometimes hackers use people as stepping stones," he says. Important intellectual property or fat lines of credit can be very attractive targets for hackers.

who is going to have the easiest time of things is the person inside your company," says computer security researcher Leigh Honeywell.

"People call it the insider threat."

"And that's where having good hiring practices, having good internal security, paying attention that you are hiring good people — that's what makes the difference there."

She adds that companies should also have layers of checks and balances in place so that if someone does go rogue they can be detected and stopped. But pect for an individual. Home research, trusted friends with computer know-how and common sense are what most people have to rely on.

When your computer is out to get you

Even technology can pose threats to privacy all by itself, she says, pointing to an incident that happened when Google launched its now defunct Buzz social networking platform. Buzz would automatic- ally "friend" all of the people in its user's email contacts — a feature that looked more like a bug for one woman when Buzz friended her abusive ex.

"Anything you post on a website you should consider to be eventually public even though your privacy settings may control who can access it at any given time," says Wright.

"Do a little bit of voluntary policy where they commit to informing their users of breaches.

Websites sometimes change their privacy policies. Even those run by people with the best of intentions sometimes get hacked. And there's the weak link in the whole equation — people.

"If you post too much info on FB and don't have your privacy set properly — you can go on Facebook and find lots of people who have not put in any privacy restrictions on their information and that makes it really easy for people to target them."

Spies like us?

If you lose your phone, are people reading your financial statements? Most people want to keep their private affairs private and don't want to be hacked, but how they feel about the privacy of others is a whole different thing. Security researcher Scott Wright, who runs a study called the Honey Stick Project, has some bad news.

"People love to look at other people's employment and salary information," says Wright, who runs experiments in which he will drop unlocked USB keys and smartphones with fake files labeled things like "HR salaries,"

"concert tickets" or "passwords," in different cities in Canada and the U.S. and then monitors what people do with them.

"It's not all that encouraging," he says. "For USB drives, about 65 per cent of the time people will open them, plug them into their computer, double click on files, which could infect their computers."

For the phones, he says 80 per cent of the time people will go through the contents to see what's on them.

"And it's not just to find contact information," he says.

Do the phones come back? "About 50 per cent of the time they will get returned."

SEAN MCKIBBIN/METRO IN OTTAWA

"We all have to figure out whether or not we're likely to be a target," says Scott Wright, a computer security expert who has worked in the field for more than a decade and uses his powers of hacking for good and not for evil.

"If you are not a target, you take the risk, like you take the risk of driving down the street and not getting into an accident."

But it's often not as

The enemy that comes from within

Nor should we overlook the threats closest to us.

Cupid's dart

On a personal level, people need to be aware of the threats closest to them — while the stereotypical "threat model" is a stranger jumping out of the bushes and attacking us, most victims of physical crimes know their attackers.

- In the computer world threats can be close too.
- Jealous partners and exes might want to snoop on your browsing or install spyware on your computer, says computer security researcher Leigh Honeywell.

Chantal Bernier.

Interim privacy commissioner talks about her biggest concerns and whether we need to redefine our ideas of privacy

& SEAN MCKIBBON
Metro in Ottawa

Personal is still personal, even on Facebook

“The public availability of personal information on the Internet’ does not ‘render personal information non-personal.” Chantal Bernier, quoting a report from her office that looked into two government departments’ collection of information from an activist’s Facebook page

Metro posed a series of questions to Chantal Bernier, Interim Privacy Commissioner of Canada, by email. The following article has been edited for length and clarity.

Q: Canadians have many ### online privacy concerns. What do you see as threats they are facing?

A: Canadians face a growing number of threats ... they may be tracked without their knowledge; they are vulnerable to hackers and fraudsters; and they may be surprised to find information they posted online used in ways they had not anticipated.

When Canadians were asked about the privacy risks that most concerned them, computer privacy and Internet security were second only to concerns related to security of financial information. We have seen a growing number of investigations under the Personal Information and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA) involve online issues.

We recently completed an investigation on how Google’s online advertising service used sensitive information about individuals’ online activities to target them with health-related advertisements. Not only was this contrary to Canadian privacy law ... it was also contrary to Google’s own privacy policy ... We were pleased Google agreed to implement our recommendations.

In our last annual report on the Privacy Act, we raised concerns with respect to two government departments collecting personal information posted by an activist on her personal Facebook page. We recommended that the departments not access this type of personal information from social media sites unless they could show there was a direct link to an operating program or activities.

Our Office recently prepared a Special Report to Parliament on reinforcing privacy protection and oversight for the Canadian intelligence community in an era of cyber-surveillance.

Canada does have a comparatively strong oversight system but our report includes a number of recommendations such as increased public reporting and a call for a re-examination of the oversight structure designed to ensure privacy.

Q: What is the volume of complaints your office fields about online privacy concerns?

A: In a typical year, our office investigates more than 1,400 complaints under the Privacy Act and PIPEDA.

Q: With the pervasiveness of Facebook and Twitter, do you think the definition of privacy needs to change?

A: Our expectations of privacy are different depending on circumstances. What you post on the Internet is not always private. We encourage people to only post things they would be comfortable with the whole world seeing.

Q: Do we need greater investment in creating a more ### secure IT infrastructure?

A: Our work has focused on ensuring organizations that are online use the tools and technologies available to properly protect security and privacy. Many privacy problems we encounter have more to do with business practices and improper use of technology to keep information secure, rather than fundamental infrastructure issues.

Q: Is the commission concerned that the government has been spying on its own people?

The recent revelations about surveillance matters have been troubling from a privacy standpoint. We hope our recent report to Parliament will contribute to a constructive, informed debate on privacy protection in the context of national security.

Report

The rich are getting richer

While politicians in Ottawa still can't decide who is in the middle class, a new analysis suggests wealth is increasingly gravitating to the very top.

The report by the left-leaning Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives shows that the country's 86 richest individuals and families — or 0.002 per cent of the total population — are getting exponentially richer and now have accumulated as much wealth as the country's poorest 11.4 million.

That's more than in 1999, when the richest 86 had as much money as the poorest

10.1 million and enough to buy up everything in New Brunswick and still have about $40 billion left over, according to the report, to be released Thursday.

"The top 20 per cent have 70 per cent of all wealth. It's much more extreme and the concern is as you accumulate all this wealth, this wealth starts to buy you political power," according to David Macdonald, economist and author of the report on wealth inequality.

The point of the exercise, says Macdonald, who used Statistics Canada data and research from Canadian Business magazine, is to show that if income inequality is a policy and social justice concern — wealth inequality is worse. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Now we've made a messaging app via wireless mesh networking so users can connect sans Internet

A new mobile messaging application called FireChat is empowering nearby smartphone users to stay in touch even when there's no cellular service or Internet connection.

Hitching a ride

FireChat's iPhone app piggybacks on an often overlooked feature called the Multipoint Connectivity Framework that Apple Inc. included in its latest mobile operating system, iOS 7, released last September. Apple says more than 80 per cent of people using its mobile devices rely on iOS 7.

nesses a technology called wireless mesh networking, which might someday allow a myriad of devices to connect like links in a chain.

The technique might someday be used to tie together thousands of devices with built-in radios and make it possible to be online without having to pay for the access. It could also enable online communications in remote areas or disaster zones without Wi-Fi or cellular signals. Furthermore, the conversations in these so-called "off-the-grid" networks can't be easily hacked into by spies and mischief makers or shut down by governments trying to stifle free speech.

"We are trying to create networks built by the people for the people," said Micha Benoliel, CEO of Open Garden, maker of the FireChat app.

Open Garden, a San Francisco start-up with just 10 employees, is taking another step toward its ambitious goal with Thursday's release of a FireChat app for Android phones.

LACK OF JUDGMENT? THAT'S %$#@

1 Justin Trudeau. I'm all for politicians being transparent and real, so I don't think it's a big deal the Liberal leader dropped the f-bomb at a charity boxing event last weekend in Gatineau, Que. The PMO called his use of the f-word a "lack of judgment" but that's the pot calling the kettle black.

2 Circle of life. Imagine being on a plane, when all of the sudden a bunch of people break out in an amazing rendition of The Circle of Life and they turn out to be the Australian cast of The Lion King. That's what happened during a flight from Brisbane to Sydney, and the YouTube footage of their high-flying performance has three million views. What a scream, er, roar!

3 Final Four. It's March Madness fun this weekend as it all comes down to No 1. Florida versus No. 7 Connecticut, and No. 2 Wisconsin versus No. 8 Kentucky. I'm pumped for this but was really hoping Canada's Nik Stauskas would be playing there — the Michigan team he starred on lost a nail-biter to Kentucky in the Elite Eight.

4 Pranks. April Fools' wasn't just parents pranking their kids. Some of the best came from Canadian companies such as Fido, which replaced their iconic K9 with a feline in their branding, and Westjet claiming it's converting all its flight times to metric. That more companies have co-opted April Fools' is fine with me. All in good fun.

5 Photoshop Lorde. Huge props to Lorde, the 17-year-old pop star who drew attention to a photoshopped image of herself on Twitter, and then showed the "real" one with all her flaws. "I find this curious — two photos from today, one edited so my skin is perfect and one real. remember flaws are ok :)" she said to her 1.4 million followers. Great message.

6 Miley & Avril. To lampoon a recent study ranking Avril as the most famous Canadian of all time, Miley Cyrus and Avril Lavigne showed they have comedic talent in a 14-second Instagram video where they argue over who is the most famous person in Canada. They end the video by play wrestling. The only thing that would have made it better is if the Biebs was refereeing.

7 Snapchat. Time.com posted an article on how Snapchat is growing up, as it transitions from tweens sending selfies to each other to college students trading admissions pics — and colleges actually directly recruiting students using the service. Facebook, Instagram and Twitter grew up. Now, it's Snapchat's turn. Time for me to join.

8 #YouKnowYoureCanadianWhen. What I love about Canadians is how funny and self-deprecating we are. So when #YouKnowYoureCanadianWhen trended this week, people ate it up like bacon with tweets like "You wanna wear shorts in 7 degree weather" and "you say sorry when the person bumped into *you*." Love this country.

9 (Samsung) selfie with Obama. A selfie of Boston Red Sox slugger David Ortiz with U.S. President Obama was all the rage this week. Turns out, Samsung — which was behind the Ellen Oscars selfie — was also behind this, as Ortiz has an endorsement deal with them. From now on, I'm just going to assume Samsung is behind every selfie that goes viral. So they win.

Ostrich racing in Nevada, lightsaber fencing in San Francisco and fire obstacle running in Wolverhampton, U.K., are some of the bizarre sports Sol Neelman has documented over the years. How did you get into weird sports photography?
About ten years ago, a friend asked me, what do I love? "Travel, sport, photography and weird s—t," I replied. So I started researching about wild sporting events and sort of had an epiphany: I found fun things to photograph. So I quit my job at local newspaper The Oregonian and started travelling the world chronicling strange sports — 200 of them in nine years.

Synopsis

When we meet up with the recently defrosted superhero Captain America (Chris Evans), he is catching up with the modern world. He soon finds himself tangling with the chrome-armed Winter Soldier (Sebastian Stan), a villain from Cap's long distant past and battle against a threat from deep inside S.H.I.E.L.D., his own spy network. The Captain must determine who can be trusted. Will it be S.H.I.E.L.D. director Nick Fury (Samuel L. Jackson), the flirty but deadly Natasha Romanoff (Scarlett Johansson) or World Security Council bigwig Alexander Pierce (Robert Redford)? The decisions he makes could save his life and the lives of 20 million civilians.

Captain America: The Winter Soldier.

Blockbuster's plot is ripe with twists and turns and some genuinely thrilling moments

Richard: Mark, movie by movie, Marvel is creating an interconnected universe. Like a giant jigsaw puzzle, the comic book company has pieced together something quite unprecedented: a series of films that aren't sequels to one another, but when combined form a loud, brash whole. Captain America was a latecomer to the party, and while the first film was a solid introduction, it didn't have the sparkle of, say, the first Iron Man movie. The character seemed a bit beige; a do-gooder with no rough edges. The Winter Soldier addresses those concerns, fleshing out the character and providing some very good action sequences. What did you think?

Mark: I'm not sure the word "think" applies much to the movie. But I did enjoy it, much more than the first installment. The plot seemed rooted in some reality, in a kind of paranoid thriller way, like Enemy of the State and Three Days of the Condor, and Robert Redford's presence makes the connection

Quoted

Richard Crouse, movie columnist

even more explicit. But I still don't feel I knew Captain America any better in this one. He's still a cipher to me — a sphinx with a very powerful garbage can lid.

RC: This time out I thought Evans got deeper into the character. Physically he's one big rippling muscle, but it's his personality and attitude that make him interesting. He's still a do-gooder, but one who questions his missions. "You're holding a gun to everyone on Earth and calling it protection," he says after learning of S.H.I.E.L.D.'s violent plan to bring peace to the world. It's an edgy message from a Greatest-Generation type to a world where drones have become common and Edward Snowden rides the line between patriot and traitor. The message permeates the plot, which is ripe with twists and turns and some genuinely thrilling moments.

MB: Dunno about the message, but there were two long memorable car chases, and that's enough for me! Loved the cast — Redford, Samuel L. Jackson, Anthony Mackie, all great fun, but Scarlett Johansson was the cherry on the top of this sundae. She plays a lot of scenes without much makeup, which made me believe she was actually on an op. In the fight scenes, I'm sure Evans and Johansson used stunt doubles, but it looked they were doing their own work. Nice directing.

RC: I enjoyed the performances. Johansson, in particular, is mad, bad and dangerous to know as Romanoff, and kicks so high it's only a matter of time until she gets her own Avengers movie.

MB: I'm looking forward to the next installment: Captain America and Tennille, where he saves the world and sings poppy '70s love ballads.

Cooking up drama on the gridiron

Draft Day. Director Ivan Reitman set out to make a football movie that appealed to non-football fans

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Ivan Reitman returns to the director's chair with the football drama Draft Day, starring Kevin Costner as the beleaguered general manager of the Cleveland Browns. For Reitman, the film signals a change in what sort of material he wants to direct — which means someone else will be helming Ghostbusters III.

How do you go about getting non-football fans to care about football?

That's the magic trick of this movie. When we were making it, I knew that if it was only for football fans, then the film wasn't right. Because it's really not so much about football, even though it takes place in the football world. It's really about human drama and being under pressure and rising against it.

Kevin Costner stars in Draft Day, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

And you have Kevin Costner as the guy dealing with that pressure.

There's just something about the guy that looks like he should be doing this and could have done it in his life. I said this to him when I first met him, that there's kind of this inner goodness that he represents, this all-American kind of good guy quality that we as men want to follow, and it's what makes him effective as a movie star. It's sort of what Gary Cooper and all those great, classical old-time Hollywood guys had.

How did he respond to that? He sort of smiled shyly at me and changed the subject.

Being in charge of a major-league sports team is such a public job, with so many fans and critics offering unsolicited

opinions. Sort of like being a movie director, right?

There's 100,000 reviewers out there, not counting all the people who review your movie anyway as individuals and tell their friends, "Yeah, it sucked." It's part of public life today, and it's why I could relate to the story very easily. I felt very much like his job is the job of a director in a movie. I've had to deal with those kinds of pressures.

What are your priorities for

Director Ivan Reitman believes Ghostbusters III is still worth making. CONTRIBUTED

choosing projects to direct at this point in your career?

At this age, if I'm going to continue directing, I think it will be things that are a little smaller and more intimate that have a stronger emotional core to them. It sort of led to that decision of withdrawing from Ghostbusters as a director. I wanted to do it, but I was always torn for that reason. And then with Harold Ramis's death, it just didn't seem right for me to continue as the director, and I actually thought I'd be more effective as the producer of the project.

What do you think about the diehard Ghostbusters fans out there who don't think a third movie is a good idea?

People are cynical, and there's now a million critics out there who let everybody know on a daily basis what they think about everything. People are always almost 90 per cent negative on what they don't know, because what's in their imagination is not necessarily correct. I know we have a script that I think will work, and I have a long history of making things work. I've been wrong a bunch of times, but I think this is a really good one, and I think it's worth making.

She's starting with the demon in the mirror

Oculus. Karen Gillan shaved her head for Marvel's tent-pole summer film — but first she stars in a freaky thriller

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Scottish actress Karen Gillan is making the move to the big screen after making a name for herself on Doctor Who. She shaved her head for this summer's big Marvel adventure Guardians of the Galaxy, but first up, she has the terrifying new psychological thriller Oculus, featuring Gillan as a young woman trying to prove a demonic mirror was responsible for her family's bloody demise 10 years earlier.

I sat next to a professional medium for my screening, and she couldn't take it. Are you for real? That's cool. If you can freak out a medium,

Karen Gillan stars in Oculus, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED then great.

The film does a great job of playing with whether the audience can actually trust your character or not.

That was a really fun thing for me to play and get involved in. As the characters are questioning what they remember and what they believe to be real, we want the audience to do that as well. So the audience starts off thinking this girl is OK and then are more gradually thinking, "Oh no, she's insane." It's quite a cool journey.

Did you have any trouble with the American accent?

I mean, I worked with a dialect coach a lot because I had a 13-page monologue to get through. There are certain sounds that I struggle with, or I just slip into this crazy Boston accent out of nowhere. I didn't know what it was (laughs). We'll just assume she spent some time in Boston at some point.

These are the sorts of backstories you create for yourself as an actress.

Yes, exactly. It was just a nuanced performance.

With your transition to films, is there any particular strategy at play?

I don't plot anything out. I'm not really a strategy type. I just look for good projects, really. I mean, right now I'm going to go and shoot a pilot for ABC, so there's no real plotting. I mean, I haven't plotted. Maybe my agent has, but I haven't.

You've obviously already got a nice foothold with the Comic-Con audience with Doctor Who, but Guardians of the Galaxy should increase it to a pretty intense level. Yeah, what should I do next? How do I get the most nerd cred in the world.

I think Star Wars, maybe? Star Wars, yeah. OK.

The head shaving must come up pretty often.

That does come up a lot. I quite like it. It's OK now, but before it was just so weird. I have my hair as a wig. That was the one thing that Marvel did. They were like, "To soften the blow, we're going to send your hair to the Star Wars people and they're going to make you a wig." I wish I'd gotten a picture of, like, all these monster heads and then just my hair in the Star Wars workshop.

I guess Disney has those connections now.

Exactly. It's like, "I know just who to send this to."

You say you want a Revolutionary spy story? Turn on the Redcoats' tale

The spies who loved each other. Childhood friends unite to foil the British in the AMC historical drama Turn

A classic spoof of the Revolutionary War finds Gen. George Washington interrupted by a bill collector out on the battlefield.

"Could you come back in a little while?" Washington proposes. "I'm going down in history at the moment."

In real life, Washington didn't know he was going down in history any more than do the characters of Turn, a new AMC drama about four young Americans who find themselves part of an espionage network destined to help the Continentals beat their British oppressors.

History records these childhood friends were the core of what was dubbed the Culper Ring. But history remained pretty tight-lipped about it, at least until now, as Turn shines an overdue light on their galaxy.

"We're catching these heroes before they were heroes," says Heather Lind, who plays wife, tavern keeper and spy Anna Strong. "I didn't know I was auditioning for a real person till about three auditions in."

Adding spice to the tale is

the mutual yearning of Anna and her former fiancé, Abraham Woodhull, in their small Long Island town. Years earlier, Abraham broke off their engagement. Each married another. Now, reunited by their patriotic cause, they find their long-thwarted romance will be rekindled.

"He knows Anna is who he should be with," says Jamie Bell, who plays the much-conflicted Abraham. And when the war throws them together, "she's the one who makes him face his fears and find his voice."

The 28-year-old Bell, born in England, began his career as a kid star in the 2000 musical feature Billy Elliot, wowing moviegoers with his skill as a hooper. Subsequent films include King Kong, Nicholas Nickleby, Flags of Our Fathers, The Adventures of Tintin and the current Nymphomaniac. He is married to actress Evan Rachel Wood.

Lind, 31, who grew up near Albany, N.Y., has logged a number of stage credits and a recurring role on HBO's Boardwalk Empire.

"I was sort of star-struck when I met Jamie," she confides. "To look nice I wore a pair of heels. Then Jamie came in and introduced himself and I was sort of looking down at him."

No wonder. Bell has a wiry but compact build ("I'm five-foot-eight after yoga, when

She wants the young American

"It gets hot and heavy, man. We spend at least half the season building up to it."

Jamie Bell, who plays Abe to Heather Lind's Anna in Turn, describes the slow burn leading up to the rekindling of the pair's long-thwarted romance.

I've stretched myself out") and Lind reports her height as five-foot-seven.

"At the last minute, right before the audition, I snuck a pair of flats out of my bag and changed shoes," she says.

"Very Anna Strong-like," says Bell admiringly.

The couple's easy, joking banter strikes quite a contrast to Abraham's haunted demeanour, and to that of Anna, who, in Lind's portrayal, exhibits a world of pain and resolve in her enormous brown eyes.

"On the show, I look so serious!" Lind says. "But there are a few scenes toward the end of the season where there's laughing."

"Why?" asks the reporter. Was someone tickling her?

"You can use that word if you like," she replies with an explosive giggle.

"It gets hot and heavy, man," Bell elaborates. "We spend at least half the season building up to it."

Meanwhile, they have been busy helping the struggling Continentals hang on.

Turn, which wrapped its first season just one day before this interview in New York, was shot around Richmond, Va. Billed there with Bell and Lind were Seth Numrich as Ben Tallmadge and Daniel Henshall as Caleb Brewster, the other members of the undercover quartet. The series also stars Kevin R. McNally, Burn Gorman, Angus MacFadyen, JJ Feild and Samuel Roukin as the slithery Redcoat Capt. Simcoe, who viewers will love hating from his boots to his powdery wig.

Speaking of which: "The men on this show have more makeup and hair than WE do," cracks Lind. "Do you know how long it takes to straighten out his ponytail?" she says with a nod toward Bell.

"I wear a little extension," he concedes. "I've been wearing it for five months and I took it out yesterday for the final time. I was ready to burn it!" THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

3 songs for the weekend

In celebration of the 300th edition of my Metro column, I give you some wonderfully weird tunes that may just melt your ears

Sound Check

Trouble's Lament/Tori Amos

Kooky Tori is back with a record that she describes as more of a diary than anything else. Unrepentant Geraldines — a wonderfully Tori-like title — will be out May 13.

Fleshlightning/Daniel James

This vaguely Blue Oyster Cult-ish spoof song, wherein the singer ditches a microphone for a male sexual aid, is a funny — albeit icky — twist on the typical ode to love.

Master Yoda/Eclectic Method

If you're looking for spiritual advice from a backwards-talking light-sabre wielding ancient green Muppet who talks backwards, this will help.

See that symbol? It means you can scan this image with your Metro News app to listen to Alan Cross's recommended songs this week.

Delsin Rowe has the ability to become smoke. This should make him super-human, but because he uses it like a gun for some fairly standard shootouts, he's just another ordinary game character. The superpowers you unlock end up being the least interesting part of the game when compared to exploring the beautiful city of Seattle, meeting engaging characters, and enjoying activities involving Banksy-inspired street art. You end up playing not for what's happening now, but for what you hope might happen next. KRIS ABEL

Old-timers wield power behind the Iron Throne

Respect your elders. Veteran actors prove influential players in the Game of Thrones

Like every Game of Thrones fan, Charles Dance was gobsmacked by last season's next-to-last installment.

That episode floored viewers with its ritualistic Red Wedding, a massacre staged by Lord Walder Frey, the bride's father, who meant to settle a score with his hall of guests, and did.

"I got quite a shock!" says Dance, speaking for everyone who saw it. "It was bloody in the extreme!"

The fact that Dance was caught off guard is notable, since he's a star of the show. Indeed, the character he plays, Lord Tywin Lannister, had a hand in the bloodshed.

But he didn't actually appear in that episode, "and when I'm not in it, to be honest with you, I don't read the script," Dance says. "I catch up on what's happening when the episode airs."

Game of Thrones, which returns Sunday at 9 p.m. ET/

MT on HBO Canada, will pack its next punch soon enough in the new season. Such is the nature of this epic fantasy, set on a make-believe continent called Westeros, chock-full of warring kingdoms, rugged landscapes, lots of sex and swordplay, and, of course, fire-breathing dragons.

If the scale of the series is vast, the source material is no less sprawling: the five-and-counting novels by George R.R. Martin in the series A Song of Ice and Fire.

"I still have not read the books," says Dance. "They frighten me, books that thick. And, anyway, we're dealing with an adaptation. I think it's counterproductive for actors to come to the set with well-thumbed copies of the book their film is adapted from."

Dance's despotic Lord Tywin is the grandfather of King Joffrey, an infantile tyrant whose betrothed is the granddaughter of Olenna Tyrell. Lady Olenna is played by Diana Rigg.

On-screen future in-laws, Rigg and Dance have known and worked together for decades, including a 1997 British TV adaptation of Rebecca.

Asked what drew him to the show, Dance smiles and answers, "The writing was good, the costumes are great and, eventually, the location catering was fantastic."

"I loved the idea of playing this naughty old bag," Rigg says, offering her own explanation. "It's my idea of heaven."

Now 75, Rigg has had a rich and varied career in theatre, both in her native Britain and as a Tony Award winner on Broadway, as well as films including the James Bond caper On Her Majesty's Secret Service.

But her breakout role was in 1965 in the British TV thriller The Avengers, where she played the catsuit-clad karate queen Emma Peel.

Tall and imperial, Dance, 67, grew up working-class in England and overcame a teenage stammer to devote himself to theatre. His breakout project was the 1984 British TV hit The Jewel in the Crown, which he followed with such films as Michael Collins and Gosford Park.

His first job: working as a dresser in the original West End production of Fiddler on the Roof. Then he landed a spot in a London repertory company with a crushing regime: "It was 16 plays in 16 weeks. 'What's my motivation?' 'Your weekly paycheck. Just learn the lines and don't bump into the furniture.'"

Likewise, Rigg paid her dues in repertory. Besides dashing onstage to say her lines, she was charged with such production chores as handling recorded sound effects and background music.

"Once, when the curtain was coming down, I was supposed to play Ride of the Valkyries," she says. Instead, she mistakenly cued up a polka. "The looks I got from the rest of the cast at our curtain call!"

A great and powerful Dorothy arouses wrath

A classic children's story is being reimagined. Dorothy Must Die by Danielle Paige is not the Wizard of Oz story you're familiar with. In this new book, Dorothy has become the ruler of the land. The power has gone to her head and she is no longer the sweet girl we know and love. To restore order, another girl from Kansas is on a mission to kill Dorothy. The CW is already planning on turning Dorothy Must Die into a TV show. If the book trailer is a tease for what's to come, expect lots of suspense and dark, gritty humour. EMILY LAURENCE/METRO WORLD NEWS

Ha ha! What tickles the funnybone isn't universally humorous

EDWARD THOMPSON
Metro World News

If you fancy yourself a bit of a comic genius, you'd best get used to those awkward silences.

"The best predictor of whether someone is going to be funny is by how often they'll try to make people laugh. They fail more, but they'll also succeed more," says Prof. Peter McGraw, founder of the Humor Research Lab at the University of Colorado Boulder.

McGraw teamed up with journalist Joel Warner to embark on a worldwide quest to unravel the mystery behind comedy gold. The psychology professor spoke to Metro about the funniest finds published in their new book The Humor Code: A Global Search For What Makes Things Funny.

You did a bit of stand-up in New York before your trip. Were you a hit or a flop, and did you have a drink before going up?

I had a couple of whiskeys, which probably took the edge off. I was disappointed by the whole thing because I had very clearly bombed. Being an academic, I started analyzing it all. I failed to anticipate how the jokes would be received by an audience of dirtbag hipsters and wannabe comedians.

Speaking of booze, is it easier to make drunk people laugh?

The research tends to say that people who are drunk are more easily amused. One caveat: Very subtle types of jokes might not be understood. It's because alcohol impairs cognitive functioning so people might just miss out on the jokes. Drunk people just love blunt types of comedy.

Why does humour vary from culture to culture?

It's because, in the words of the Humor Research Lab, what people see to be benign — and what people see to be violations — depends on their cultural values. That's what makes it very difficult to be universally funny.

Where was the funniest place that you visited?

People don't believe that there's going to be much humor in the West Bank, but even we were surprised by how many hilarious people we encountered. Anytime you find people who are individuals coping with hardship, you're going to find comedy. There's a long history of comedy speaking truth in the midst of oppression.

Can humour heal?

Yes, there's no doubt about that. If you can get people to smile even if they're not in a good mood, it will make them feel better because of the association. The same goes for laughter. You don't need to do something funny to get people to enjoy the benefits of laughter. You just have to ask them to start with non-Duchenne laughter (the polite laughter you use with your boss), which can turn into positive laughter (Duchenne).

Dot-com world fuels sitcom

Silicon Valley. New Mike Judge series chronicles characters' Zuckerberg aspirations

Mike Judge describes himself on Twitter as "The Beavis & Butt-Head, King of the Hill, Office Space, Idiocracy guy."

He may soon have to cram Silicon Valley to his Twitter résumé. The new comedy, which takes dead aim at the big money world of dot-com start-ups, premieres Sunday, April 6 on HBO Canada following the fourth-season return of Game of Thrones.

The 51-year-old executive producer has a knack for taking the madness of the modern world and feeding it through a comedy shredder. He has a Texan's way of telling it like it is, as with this recent tweet:

"What we really need to save the environment are more ill-informed self-aggrandizing celebrities. The more washed up the better."

Judge doesn't need to tweet (and, in fact, rarely does). Instead of venting on social media like the rest of us, he can mock society's foibles to millions through his movies and TV shows.

His latest project allows him to goof on Twitter, Google, Facebook, Apple and all the other high-tech giants from an insider's perspective. Silicon Valley is about a group of twenty-something computer programmers living together in a so-called "hacker hostel" in the Silicon Valley region of Palo Alto, Calif.

Thomas Middleditch (The Office) plays Richard, a 26-year-old programmer who has come up with a nifty new high-speed compression algorithm that is the envy of the industry. Together with his best pal Big Head (Josh Brener) and fellow brainy misfits Gilfoyle and Dinesh (Martin Starr, Kumail Nanjiani) — as well as Erlich (T.J. Miller), the deluded dot-com millionaire who lets them all crash at his house — each member of the gang plots to become the next Mark Zuckerberg.

Besides Judge, the series was created by John Altschuler, Dave Krinsky (King of the Hill) and Alec Berg (Curb Your Enthusiasm). Toronto-born Michael Rotenberg (It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia) and Tom Lassally (The Goode Family) are also executive producers.

Judge didn't have to Google these sitcom characters. As he told TV critics gathered earlier this year in Pasadena, Calif., he was one of them. When he was 23, the physics major worked as a test engineer in Palo Alto.

"This is boring stuff for most of you," said Judge in his familiar drawl (halfway between two animated characters he created and voiced — Hank Hill from King of the Hill and Butt-Head). He explained how he put in a little over a year testing automatic systems for F-18 fighters as well as interfaces for early high-def screens.

"I was programming a little bit back then," he downplays. "I didn't follow it that much. Now that I'm doing the show I've gotten back into it."

His dealings brought him into contact with some of the big tech players he lampoons on the series.

"We've both known some tech billionaires," he says, speaking also for Berg, whose father was a physics professor and whose brother worked for Microsoft co-founder Paul Allen.

In the pilot, two billionaire venture capitalists (played by Christopher Evan Welch and Matt Ross) compete to seize Richard's zippy new algorithm. Berg insists they're not based on anyone in particular, although he admits that, after researching this dot-com business world, "the craziest stuff that you can think of is not half as crazy as the real stuff you're finding."

Judge says there's a "billionaire vibe" they just tapped into, suggesting these industry leaders fall into two categories, "a kind of Asperger-type" or an "uber-competitive guy."

Miley's pot puffing habit Can't Be Tamed

Miley Cyrus has made no secret of her love of marijuana, but apparently her intake can even shock the likes of rapper Wiz Khalifa, who teamed up with Cyrus for a track on his new album. "She smokes a ton," he tells Arsenio Hall in an interview. "She's young, so it's different. Every five minutes she kept being like, 'Wiz, you don't have a joint rolled? What's up?' She's a tiny girl. And she's just blowing like a train." METRO WORLD NEWS

Freehab? LiLo's stay at Cliffside Malibu comped

Lindsay Lohan's ongoing financial woes didn't stop her from getting some much-needed treatment, as her last three-month stay at the Cliffside Malibu rehab facility was reportedly on the house, according to Radar Online. "Health insurance wouldn't pay for the rehab stint because this was her sixth time in treatment," a source says. "Cliffside Malibu comped it. Prior to arriving at Cliffside, Lindsay had been at Betty Ford and wasn't doing well there. Cliffside Malibu became available and agreed to allow her to stay, presumably because of the free publicity it gave them. She thrived in the environment." Lohan reportedly stayed in a private room at the well-appointed facility because "she would never agree to have a roommate."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Were Gwyneth and Chris consciously open coupling?

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News

I really do feel badly for Chris Martin and Gwyneth Paltrow. Say what you will about Gwyneth, no one ever accused her of not trying hard. And if someone who tries about 10 times harder than anyone else can't win at marriage, what hope do mere mortals have?

That's not to say that the Paltrow-Martin marriage was all picket fences and soccer games. Rumour has it that prior to their conscious uncoupling, Paltrow and Martin engaged in a fair amount of conscious coupling with other partners, according to E! Online.

Over the years, gossip has linked both spouses to others. Gwyneth's recent power struggle with Vanity Fair was reportedly the result of her attempt — ultimately successful — to keep the magazine from printing rumours of her affair with Florida businessman Jeffrey Soffer.

She's also been linked to Glee producer Brad Falchuk and attorney Kevin Yorn. Coldplay star Martin, meanwhile, has reportedly been spotted with Kate Hudson, Kate Bosworth, and Helena Christensen. Man (allegedly) likes his blondes. Martin's rep denied the Bosworth rumour, saying the story was "entirely untrue," while Christensen also issued a strongly worded denial.

So is it true or isn't it? This is probably just one of the great mysteries, guys. We'll never know if Gwyneth Paltrow and Chris Martin had an open marriage, just like we'll never know if aliens exist.

Tom Daley

Daley says he's gay, not bisexual

Tom Daley would like to clarify his earlier statement about his sexuality. When the British Olympic diver first divulged that he is dating a man — Oscar-winning screenwriter Dustin Lance Black, as it turns out — in a YouTube video in December, he was sure to mention, "Of course, I still fancy girls." But in an interview on Keith Lemon's Celebrity Juice, Daley revised his statement, saying, "I am a gay man now." And while he found the coming out experience terrifying, Daley is still glad he did it. "I came out on YouTube as I wanted to say what I wanted to say without anyone twisting it. I told my family before I told the world. I was terrified," he says. METRO WORLD NEWS

Nigella Lawson

Nigella barred from U.S. flight

The U.S. Embassy in London says celebrity cook Nigella Lawson was denied permission to board a flight to the United States on the weekend.

The embassy did not disclose the reason for refusing Lawson, who admitted during a recent court case that she had occasionally used cocaine. Embassy spokeswoman Lynne Platt said Thursday that Lawson was stopped from travelling Sunday and had subsequently been invited to the embassy to apply for a visa.

British citizens need visas to work in the U.S. but not for a vacation. U.S. authorities may refuse passengers admission for various reasons, including drug use.

Liquid Assets

Germany's global appeal

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

I'm back from Germany — a winemaking country with a long history, both in its own vineyards and here in Canada.

If you're showing even a hint of grey hair, you probably remember Germany's liquid output as the sweet and simple stuff your parents drank at bridge club parties.

But today's German wines have a secret weapon. Predominately white, their balance of sugar and acidity make them extremely food-friendly, especially when you're looking for a match with takeout. Sushi, Chinese, Mexican, Thai, anything spicy, and they can fill your glass.

I spent some time in the Mosel region: a beautiful part of the wine world populated by small fairy-tale towns where steeply planted vines grow on the slopes that rise from the banks of the meandering Moselle river.

In the Mosel, Riesling is king, with wines like Dr.

Loosen's 2012 'Dr. L' Riesling ($13.95 - $18.99) offering soft, green apple/fruit expression and a palate-cleansing personality that pairs perfectly with the local cuisine. Pass the schnitzel. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

NHL. Speedy forward getting better and better on mediocre Jets

The Winnipeg Jets have struggled again this season but one player who has lifted his game to a new level is forward Blake Wheeler.

He has consistently been one of the team's top scorers and has already set a personal best with 27 goals this season entering play Thursday against the Pittsburgh Penguins. He has also tied a career high with 64 points with five games to go.

His previous best was 21 goals in his rookie season with Boston in 2008-'09, yet he still doesn't think of himself as a sniper.

"It doesn't come as natural for me, being a quote-unquote goal-scorer," he said Thursday after practice. "But I like to create offence and get myself in those scoring areas and when you do that you're going to find yourself with opportunities to put the puck in the net."

The 26-year-old native of Robbinsdale, Minn., was drafted by the Phoenix Coyotes with the fifth overall pick in 2004. The two sides couldn't agree on a contract and he eventually signed with the Bruins as a free agent in 2008.

Wheeler was traded to the Atlanta Thrashers early in 2011, moved with them to Winnipeg that summer and has played all three seasons with the Jets in their new home.

A rangy six foot five and 205 pounds, the right-winger's nickname is Wheels and he certainly has them. The speed and size of players like Wheeler stood out for Paul Maurice when he first took over as head coach earlier this season.

The Jets have done a lot of tinkering with line combinations this season but being on a line with Wheeler has turned into a good way to improve statistics.

Dustin Byfuglien, who moved from defence to forward mid-season and anchors the left side with Wheeler, had 20 goals and a career-high 55 points entering play Thursday.

In fact, Maurice said that's one of the reasons Evander Kane's production this season hasn't matched previous seasons, although injuries — both to Kane and others — have played a factor.

Kane, who has missed 18 games, spent some time on the left side of a line with Wheeler and rookie centre Mark Scheifele. It was a potent combination but injuries prevented a consistent run as linemates.

"Whoever hasn't played on Wheeler's wing, the other side, their numbers are down," said Maurice.

Wheeler had his own struggles at times this season. He went 14 games in November without scoring a goal and had only eight assists over the stretch.

He got tired of the questions but found his touch again before joining the U.S. team at the Sochi Olympics. Wheeler had another scoring drought in early March but found the back of the net in three of the last four games ahead of the Pittsburgh matchup.

Wheeler insists he isn't doing anything differently.

"I think a couple of years ago I found something that really works for me, my preparation, how I come to the rink every day and I think that's just gotten stronger," he said.

"I show up to work ready to get better every day. It's a cliché, obviously, but I take it to heart when I come through these doors." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's Kevin Koe swept his games Thursday to qualify for the 1-2 Page Playoff game at the world men's curling championship.

Koe and his Calgary-based team opened with an 11-5 win over Germany's John Jahr at Capital Gymnasium and then locked up second place with a 7-5 victory over Scotland's Ewan MacDonald.

"We woke up today just worried about making sure that we made the playoffs," Koe said. "We lose that game and we could be in a tiebreak-er or something. The big thing was just to win and get in the playoffs and if we were in the 3-4 game, that was fine with us. We've done it before.

"But to get in the 1-2 game with an extra life, that's a bonus for sure."

The winner of Saturday's 1-2 game will advance straight to Sunday's final. The loser will play the winner of the 3-4 Page Playoff game in the semifinal.

The semifinal winner will play for gold and the loser will fall into the bronze-medal game against the 3-4 loser.

Archer (1-0) allowed two runs, four hits, two walks and had seven strikeouts. Archer and the Rays agreed to a $25.5 million, six-year deal Wednesday. The contract includes club options for 2020 and 2021 that could raise the value to $43.75 million.

Brandon Morrow (0-1) gave up four runs and seven hits over five innings in his first start since May 28.

The right-hander missed the final four months last season due to an entrapped radial nerve in his right forearm.

The Blue Jays extended their winless road series streak at Tampa Bay to 21. Since taking a series in April 2007, Toronto has lost 19 and split two road series against the Rays.

The Blue Jays will start RHP Dustin McGowan in Friday night's home opener against the New York Yankees. Japanese star Masahiro Tanaka will make his major league debut for the Yankees.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

You seem to be feeling a bit vulnerable but there really is no need. What happens over the next few days will lift your spirits and also remind you that, even when things do go a little bit wrong, it's not the end of the world.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You may be tempted to hit back at someone who has been spreading gossip about you, but is it worth it? If you say something rude they will see they have managed to get under your skin.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You have taken on a lot of new responsibilities but is that wise? You may think you can handle the extra work with ease but the planets warn it will, sooner or later, get too much. It should be about quality work, not quantity.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You must make an effort to finish what you have started, because if you fall behind any further it may be impossible for you to catch up. Close your eyes and ears to distractions and focus on the one thing you really must get done.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

If there is something important that needs to be done over the next two days, get on with it and ignore those who say you're not up to the task. They have no idea what you are capable of. They will soon find out though!

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

A relationship that has caused you a few sleepless nights will start to improve over the weekend but don't think that means you no longer have to work at it. According to the planets, this may be the last chance you'll get.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

There is really no need to cut back on essentials or make major sacrifices, no matter what some people might say. It may seem as if there is no way out of your financial dilemma but there is always a way, so stay calm and think logically.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You are doing too many things for too many people and need to slow down a bit. If you carry on trying to do it all you are sure to burn yourself out, physically and emotionally, so stop catering to their every whim and fancy.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Don't let people play on your feelings and get you to do things you might not choose to do if you were thinking logically. Get tough and let them know you are no longer prepared to play this game.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Why is it that some people seem to enjoy making life so complicated? Whatever the reason you don't have to follow their example, so keep things simple today and don't go searching for complicated answers to what are such straightforward questions.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

A light-hearted attitude will take you a long way today. The planets suggest if you take nothing too seriously then nothing too serious will go wrong. In the greater scheme of things, it all comes right in the end.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You will find it easy to see the good in other people today — and they in turn will realize what a special friend they have in you. You can't love the whole world, of course, but the world has a special place in its heart for you.
